Overall, the implementation of the grade book at the elementary level has been a success. They are still working on a few enhancements that will improve the process even more for future grading periods.

c. Monthly Update.

P. Aubin reported to the Board on the following:

- The following report that was received from the CAPSS regarding a recent State Board of Education meeting indicates that some progress is being made towards this goal of aligning Burden of Proof with federal IDEA law:

Burden of Proof mentioned during public comment portion: During public comment, there were three individuals who spoke on the burden of proof issue. One was James McGahee of the Office of Protection and Advocacy for Persons with Disabilities who is a supporter of maintaining status quo for the burden of proof. Two other individuals who spoke in favor of changing the burden of proof urged the Board not to take action until the study is completed by the Department on the burden of proof regulations. This was the study that was required as a result of PA 11-09 which directed the Department to study special education mandates above/beyond federal requirements, specifically inclusive of the burden of proof issue.

Burden of Proof Tabled until March Meeting: Later in the afternoon, the Board took up approving the draft regulations on special education, and Ann Louise Thompson from the Department was present to answer questions on the topic. A motion was made by Board Member Ferdinand Risco that any action on the special education regulations be tabled until after the study on state special education requirements and burden of proof above what is required by the federal government is completed. That study is slated to be completed in February of 2012. After a vote, the measure passed with two dissenting votes.

He is planning to put together a layout sketch for Tyl and MHS and will email it to L. Heller for review.
- United Way Campaign:
The United Way Campaign is now complete. As a district, staff donated a total of $6,077.00. We are appreciative of the support they have provided during these difficult economic times.
- Next Ed-CAPSS Educational Transformation Project:
As a member of the CAPSS Board of Directors, P. Aubin attended the press conference at the Legislative Office Building last week where the CAPSS Executive Director, Joseph Cirusuolo presented on the CAPSS Education Transformation Project: Next-Ed.
